

Call for Nomination

IEEE GRSS, MTT-S and AP-S Inter-Society Distinguished Lecturer

The IEEE Geoscience and Remote Sensing Society (GRSS), Microwave Theory and Technology Society (MTT-S), and IEEE Antennas and Propagation Society (AP-S) launched the Inter-Society Distinguished Lecturer (ISDL) program in 2024. In 2025, the GRSS, MTT-S and AP-S will continue this partnership and further substantiate this program, with the aim to strengthen and increase the collaboration and professional synergy among the three societies. It will create cross-sectorial and multidisciplinary distinguished lectures in the fields of mutual and common interest to GRSS, MTT-S and AP-S, based on an agreed cost-sharing scheme. It is expected that this ISDL program will serve joint communities and chapters of the three societies around the globe.

In this 2025 call, the three societies will jointly select and appoint one Inter-Society Distinguished Lecturers for the duration of three years (2026-2028).

The ISDL joint selection committee of GRSS, MTT-S and AP-S is searching for candidates who are internationally recognized experts and technical leaders in the technologies bridging all three societies, as well as excellent speakers to broad audiences.

Self-nominations are welcome and encouraged. The ISDL candidates can also be nominated by GRSS/MTT-S/AP-S Technical Committee Chairs, AdCom Members and Chapter Chairs.

A nominated candidate should be a member of all three societies and must not have been a DL or DML in the previous ten years. They should also agree to deliver a minimum of three distinguished lecturing tours, both domestic and international, each year during the tenure of three years, if selected.

The required nomination documents should include:

- Title and abstract of the talk, and
- One-page biography and affiliation (including region and country) of the candidate.

The nomination documents should be sent to:

IEEE GRSS DLPC Chair: William Blackwell, wjb@ll.mit.edu

IEEE MTT-S ISDL Chair: Yongxin Guo, yongxin.guo@cityu.edu.hk

IEEE AP-S DLPC Chair: Levent Sevgi, lsevqi@ieee.org

The nomination deadline is ~~Aug 31, 2025.~~ extended to Oct 31, 2025